

Lattice Completes Acquisition of InnoVisit

Seamless technology integration strengthens ICON platform; expected to drive added sales growth

PENNSAUKEN, NJ, November 18, 2013 (Marketwire) -- Lattice Incorporated (OTCQB: LTTC) ("Lattice" or the "Company"), a provider of advanced information and communications technology solutions to customers globally, completes asset purchase of InnoVisit's video conferencing technology. InnoVisit is a leading provider of video conferencing technology to the corrections market.

"We've had a great working relationship with InnoVisit for more than a year," stated Paul Burgess, CEO of Lattice. "Our customers have been very pleased with InnoVisit's technology and its seamless integration into our ICON platform. We plan to take advantage of new cross-selling opportunities with current customers and previous installations, and this technology has strengthened our competitive position, which should lead to accelerated sales growth as we expand our marketing efforts."

InnoVisit's video visitation technology is currently used by more than 90 facilities in 26 states and Canada.

ICON, Lattice's proprietary Integrated Corrections Operating Network, is a robust technology platform that provides secure, cloud-based management of all customer, payment, and accounting data for correctional facilities. ICON is designed to improve efficiency and accountability for correctional facilities ranging from large multi-facility operators to small individual facilities.
