

LATTICE IMPLEMENTS INMATE VIDEO VISITATION SYSTEM AT SPARTANBURG COUNTY, SOUTH CAROLINA DETENTION CENTER

System Will Improve Inmate Well-Being and Increase Facility Efficiency

PENNSAUKEN, NJ, March 15, 2017 -- Lattice Incorporated has installed its NetVisit™ Video Visitation system at the Spartanburg County Detention Center in Spartanburg, South Carolina. The system will provide significant benefits to Spartanburg's inmates and facility operations.

In addition to phone calls, the NetVisit Video Visitation system will provide inmates with an innovative way to connect more frequently with family and friends. Maintaining this bond can increase inmate morale and well-being during incarceration.

Moving inmates for live visitation sessions involves significant security risks and time on the part of corrections staff. Lattice's NetVisit system will provide greater operational efficiencies to the Spartanburg facility by eliminating the need to move inmates to visitation rooms. The Company's video visitation stations are located near inmates' cell blocks.

Lattice's Video Visitation system will result in "a lot less inmate movement, which was and could be a danger for our staff," stated Major Allen Freeman, Director of the Spartanburg County Detention Center. "Also, it gives them more opportunities to visit with their families and loved ones, which they didn't have before. It's just more convenient for everybody involved."

"With our NetVisit system, our goal is to promote positive inmate morale and well-being," noted Paul Burgess, CEO of Lattice. "Additionally, we're delivering greater efficiencies to the Spartanburg County Detention's Center's operations by allowing facility staff to focus on their primary responsibilities of inmate safety and security. We look forward to growing our partnership with the Spartanburg County facility."
